Tying-up and Azoturia are referred to as Exertional Rhabdomyolysis. It is the most common muscle problem in horses and surfaces as being either being sporadic or chronic. The genetically inherited chronic forms are Polysaccharide Storage Myopathy or Recurrent Exertional Rhabdomyolysis. If a horse displays symptoms immediately stop from working and call the veterinarian. Signs include reluctance to move, profuse sweating, and hard muscles in the hindquarters. There are many possible causes. An excessive amount of glycogen stored in the skeletal muscles from high grain diets being continually fed on days off or a genetic predisposition to store extra glycogen may disrupt the metabolic energy development once work is reestablished. A genetic abnormality causing muscle contractions could also be the culprit. Proper diagnosis and treatment protocol will be based individually. Typically a change in diet and continual exercise with turn-out will eliminate or reduce Chronic Exertional Rhabdomyolysis. A well followed conditioning and feeding program could prevent an attack. This would include reducing the sugar and starches on days off.
