WYLL, Prince of Dyved . . . let hose the dogs * in the wood and sounded the horn and began the chase. And as he followed the dogs he lost his companions; and while he listened to the hounds he heard the cry of other hounds, a cry different from his own, and coming in the opposite direction. . . . And he saw a horseman coming towards him on a large light-grey steed with a hunting horn round his neck, and clad in garments of grey woollen in the fashion of a hunting garb, and the horseman drew near and spoke to him thus: . A crowned King I am in the land whence I come. . . . There is a man whose dominions are opposite to mine, who is ever warring against me, and by ridding me of this...
