There is no air in the world more appetising than that of Egypt. Many of us were prompted thereby to set our digestions at defiance, and, wonderful to relate, large and numerous meals seemed possible in this warm climate to many who lived on short commons at home by doctor s advice. The dryness of the air may be partially responsible, regular exercise on donkey-back and climbs over ruined spots even more so. Tea disposed of, a move was made to the neighbouring temple of Luxor. It is irregularly built and has only been excavated in recent years by the Government. TEMPLE OF LUXOR. 100 The colonnades are very striking, and the outline of individual columns graceful and well-balanced. The pylons towards the north are also standing, and behind them an obelisk in pink granite. As usual, Rameses II. has left his...
